1) APPD 2018 Fall Meeting – October 11-12 in Philadelphia!

We are so excited to invite you to attend the APPD Fall Meeting, Thursday, October 11 and Friday, October 12 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania! We are planning an action-packed schedule for you!

Our Fall Meeting has been re-designed to focus on new members and those who are in new leadership positions within their residency and fellowship programs, to really help people build essential skills to be successful. In addition, as late breaking GME topics arise (past examples: milestones, work hours, etc.), we will focus the meeting on those topics as well.

This year our skill building sessions will be focused on (1) diversity and inclusion and (2) essential leadership skills! The new and improved “Table to Able” session (so popular at the Spring Meeting!) has also been added to the schedule and there will be specific programming and community-building for Program Directors, Associate Program Directors, Fellowship Directors and Associate Directors, and Residency and Fellowship Coordinators.

In addition, we are thrilled to announce that Richard Shugerman, MD (APPD LEAD Council Member and Vice Chair of Faculty Development at Seattle Children’s) will be the keynote speaker!

Registration will open this summer. We excitedly invite all GME leaders to join us!

APPD Healthcare Simulation in Pediatrics Learning Community: Update and opportunities

Our Learning Community was excited to present two different workshops at the spring APPD meeting: “Speed Dating with the Simulationists” and “SIMediation: Simulation for Remediation”. We also presented the “SIMediation: Simulation for Remediation” workshop at the Pediatric Academic Society conference this spring. We enjoyed getting to meet so many APPD members interested in simulation through these sessions and hope you found them to be helpful.

Our group is also in the process of developing a survey on the current state of simulation in pediatrics which will go out to all program directors. Our goal is to publish on what is going on in simulation currently and to create a database with what each program is actually doing so that we can use each other as resources.

We have also recently put out a call for interest in a variety of projects outlined below that the group had helped develop at the spring meeting. We are planning to form workgroups related to each area based on interest.

1. Nighttime simulation curriculum: Developing cases/toolkit to support simulation education at night with a database of cases and debriefing materials related to common nighttime topics that either attendings or senior residents could run.
2. Procedure equipment review: Creating a database outlining various types of task trainers or creative ideas people have used to teach common procedures and pros/cons of each in order to have a central location of the group's collective wisdom in this area.
3. Simulation resource list: Continuing to expand a resource list we are forming of various resources that might be of use to our group (sites of premade sim cases, evaluation tools, educational resources about debriefing, etc.).
4. Ideas for workshops for 2019 APPD conference

If anyone is interested in getting involved with any of these initiatives, or has any additional ideas, please let us know.

Amanda Rogers arogers@mcw.edu (Vice Chair)

4) View from the APPD – Manuscript Submissions Accepted

As part of a partnership between the APPD and the Academic Pediatric Association (APA), all APPD member programs receive an institutional subscription to the bimonthly publication, Academic Pediatrics, a peer-reviewed publication whose purpose is to strengthen the research and educational base of academic general pediatrics.

As the official journal of the APPD, the journal accepts manuscript submissions for the View from APPD pages. Any topic relevant to pediatric residency education or program administration will be considered, yet preference will be given to papers with outcomes beyond merely a description of a curriculum. Innovative single institution pilot projects, as well as practical how-to papers grounded in the literature will also be considered. A key consideration should be how helpful this work will be for members of the APPD community. Past examples may be found here and full author instructions here. If you would like input before the submission, or to submit an idea for a manuscript, please contact the Associate Editor for View from the APPD, Mike Pitt, at mbpitt@umn.edu.

In addition, APPD Abstracts from the APPD Annual Spring Meetings are published in the journal each summer.
